It's clearly not Iraq not yet

The problem is that protestors in MI (& PA etc) are arguably over-represented in our system, due to Electoral College

Rather than march, petition, advocate, sue, or run for office, they bring rifles.

It's more Tim McVeigh than Thomas Paine

There have been few Frogmen as respected by his peers as Charlie Keating. "Chuck" was an absolute patriot & tough as they came. Chuck will be remembered as many things: son, husband, friend, teammate, warrior, and patriot. We will do our part to make sure he's Never Forgotten.

How many car bombs did they set off ? Hard to make the McVeigh comparison.

It can be argued that their desire to chose armed protest is way less effective than petition, advocate, sue, or run for office - but it is still their right & it is a world away from the anarchy of Iraq

McVeigh (like Nidal Hasan, or S converts) is a logical end point when the rule of law no longer applies, when accountability is only to ones own ideology, tragedy follows.

Violence against illegitimate regimes can be moral / ethical but the C19 lockdowns hardly fit.

The rule of law was upheld & the protesters have not taken up arms as insurgents or turned to terror tactics.

There's also ISIS releases to keep the US funds flowing, this benefits Iran b/c they control the ISF.

Big day.

Today in Hamburg the trial starts against German/Tunisian ISIS woman Omaima Abdi. She joined ISIS in Syria &returned to Hamburg as if nothing had happened.

Then we found her Syria phone with 1000s of pics on it.

She got arrested &now faces multiple charges.

I need EVERYONE to understand th s:

If Trump has ordered a shutdown on Jan 1 cities and states could have defied t and they would have been backed by the courts

No disagreement here. But its a risk Americans have taken for our entire history. The 2 generals fear mongering that this one is "frightening & Iraq like" is being done for political reasons

So few Americans have served or seen war (a good thing) that those who have, especially Generals, get a good deal of attention by say, "this is just like Iraq" the American ppl only know what they saw on the news about Iraq and get freaked out. Its a very dishonest tactic.

U.S. gov should know nothing changes with a PM Kadhimi as long as Maliki, Ameri, & Iran are behind him.

If Maliki supports MK, then Qays must be happy.

If Ameri supports MK, then Badr is...

If Iran supports MK, then the QF must be smiling.

17 years of giving Iraq to Iran.

So, if Bina'a has its way, it will:

Exit the U.S.

Accelerate the killing of Iraqis opposed to Baghdad

Accelerate the transfer of Iraq's resources to Iran.

Invite Russian to further destroy the Sunni areas of Iraq.

If Bina'a gets its way,

Iraq will be an Iranian province.

This would be a true disaster for the Iraqi people, who deserve much better. But if the Americans leave under such circumstances, possible that the US will indeed treat Iraq as an Iranian province or like free-fire zones in Yemen or Somalia.

Asaib al-Haq & ISIS are the products of sectarian parties.Opinion pol s now ndicate that every 3 out of 4 identify themselves as raq s and not Shiites or Sunnis This means that there is a great opportunity to produce a valid political system without these dirty products.

Only Iraqis can change their Government & break free of Iran.

It will be easier for Iraqis to do, if the U.S. stops believing it needs Iran's approval on Iraqi PM.

U.S. officials, "Iran borders Iraq, so..."

Iraq borders 6 countries, 4 are U.S. allies - where's their vote.

Its Monday and Ricardo Branch is still getting fucked by the Army. Below is the original e-mail that he was kicked out of the military over. Now he's getting kicked out again for an alleged fraudulent re-enlistment. Full story:

Sir

I looked over the article and there's only one major issue on my end:
the group that inserted Seal Team-6 during the raid on the Osama Bin Ladin compound in 2011

If the author removes that line there should be no major issue
Main reason why is that DoD never officially released the names of all the units that were involved in the raid to include the 160th

Boeing can draw their own conclusions from speculation but printed with your name in it could be a perceived admission on unit participation should the story ever reach outside media

Fun fact: In japan when these hornets tries to get into a beehive the bees essentially dogpile the hornet and vibrate as much as possible to raise the temperature. Japanese honey bees can survive the heat but the hornet can't so it dies. The bees cook the hornet to death

#ISIS has for the first time revealed it was engaged in fierce clashes with al-Qaeda militants in the Sahel region (Mali and Burkina Faso), confirming mainstream reports that the two rivals have been fighting.

IS made the revelation in its weekly paper al-Naba, published this evening. It described militants of al-Qaeda's Sahel affiliate, JNIM, as "apostates" and "wild dogs", claiming IS had targeted them with a suicide bombing, among other attacks

1 7 13

Mina Al-Lami @Mina.ami · May 7

In recent days unconfirmed communique shared by jihadists online suggested that JNIM had rejected an IS ceasefire request. IS didn't refer to such comms in al-Naba. It sought to undermine JNIM by referring to its agreement this year to hold talks with the Malian government.

1 6 11

Mina Al-Lami @Mina.ami · May 7

The Sahel region is the latest jihadist front to witness IS-al-Qaeda clashes, as the two rivals have locked horns in Yemen, Somalia and prior to that in Syria. IS is also engaged in fighting against the Taliban in Afghanistan

US decision-makers continue to believe Iran gets a vote on Iraq's PM.

US decision-makers have been fooled each time.

If Iran agrees on a candidate - it means the PM is weak & will not stand in the way.

The only good thing about the US Fail is - Iraqis have had enough of Iran.

No legal action was allowed to go further based on the Flynn interview because setting up a perjury trap, for a non crime is not legal. Like every other part of the 2016 Russia side show this has only served to waste time & money.

Worth the read. I loved every second I spent in uniform but I'd be lying if I said it was completely free of witnessing and experiencing behavior like this. We can do better. We must do better.

You could spend 50 bucks for band-aids, condoms, and cold pills or you could spend less on a blowout/trauma kit that will save your life.

Short of carrying around an M9 bag and the requisite knowledge to use all of it, you should be rocking @solatac.

McR criticizes pulling out of the TPP in the same breath as pulling out of the JCPOA. TPP only furthered China's access to our markets. This move was supported by advocates for American workers.

The theme is we need to give more to hostile actors like IR/CH then they'll behave.

The reason Soleimani got such a rep wasn't necessarily because he was so good, but he never let an opportunity to bleed adversaries or extend IRN nfluence onto waste.

Definitely agree. QS did a great job at always finding the win-win. We are missing the value that RU/IR place on SY & how much they are investing, that need is their vulnerablity, our chance to bleed them w/ min effort.

I see the concern. I also think Terry's explanation fit most of his base/voters.

We have a binary system, its Trump w/his tweet trolling & real accomplishments or the DNC's latest royalty & this time they have chosen the one who can't string together a sentence.

Trump s tweets are child s play compared to Obama turning the IRS on his rivals & Bush start ng a endless war based on lies.

There is truly no alternative in terms of healthy d sruption. I hope post 2020 he works on h s management & follow thru so his inst nct s become policy

Someone needs to tell me why "but Hillary" isn t a valid thing. Because I guarantee you there's a bunch of folks who evaluated and found her to be the worse of 2 bad choices.

This time its even better, Hillary could at least form a coherent sentence. I agree, w/ a 2 party system most arguments are what-aboutism.

Again this is some of Trump's appeal. He is a repudiation of the traditional Republicans & Obama/Hill/Biden dems alike.

This episode will be interesting. Not many former members of the French Foreign Legion tell their stories. And not many of us know of their heavy involvement in Africa and elsewhere.

The disruption that Trump has brought has cracked the institutions that have held us back & led us to ship jobs overseas, fight idealistic wars for zero gain & tell us to just trust the gov & media.

Trump s tweets are child s play compared to Obama turning the IRS on his rivals & Bush starting a endless war based on lies.

There is truly no alternative in terms of healthy disruption. I hope post 2020 he works on his management & follow thru so his instincts become policy.

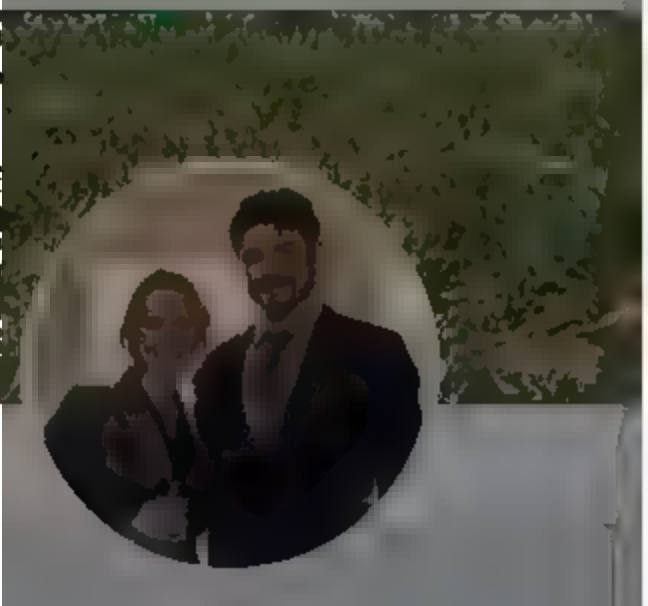
To increase flexibility & deniability mercs are a decent strategy in some cases, certainly not a fix all.



I appreciate how he points out that much of the world is already merc & its a good thing for the US allowing us to leverage our economic power- if we can get past ourselves

America 2020 is a place where the country's press largely demonstrates greater disdain for its own citizens than it does for foreign belligerents.

Imagine a press that scrutinized Iranian and Chinese propaganda as vigorously as they do the motives of everyday Americans.

How long would the nation hold together w/ the equalizing of the electoral college?

The founders saw the strength of our geographic diversity & used the EC to keep strong cities linked w/ resource rich rural areas.

EC doesn't equalize, though it distorts.

It would be more fair if the House was much larger (i.e. CA has ~200 House seats) so the EC could better account for disparities in population

EC was designed for a pre-political party US, 1 person / 1 vote won't break the country.

The reason Soleimani got such a rep wasn't necessarily because he was so good, but he never let an opportunity to bleed adversaries or extend IRN influence onto waste.

Most conscription research examines whether it would change war policy or public views, but we need more research on how using an AVF for 2 decades of war has shaped the military.

How would mil culture itself be different today if we'd used a supplemental draft? 1/2

Most of the evidence for veteran or m itary entitlement is anecdotal, though there is some survey evidence suggesting that some veterans now fee more morally superior than before

But, even f there is 'entit ement,' we need a more concrete understand ng of why that is 2/2

3 12

Jim Golby @ mgolby May 13
PS know many answers to these types of questions would depend on what kind of a draft we used and there could be wide variation n terms of numbers, skills. distribution across socio economic classes, etc. But I stil think t is a counterfactual worth trying to explore.

Trying to use traditional diplomacy is ineffective. We need to cut off the GOI & support (bribe) power brokers to counter Iran, thats how business is done outside the green zone.

This is one of the silliest angles I've ever heard , Knight's argument:

Because Kadhimi is not an Iran-backed candidate (BS), he can get the U.S. to make concessions that make Iran more comfortable

My take: If the IRGC-QF, Badr, & AAH support him they're not worried about him.

> Kadhimi may have an advantage over a more pro-Iranian politician, said Michael Knights, a senior fellow at the Washington Institute for Middle East Studies.
> "He can be tough with the U.S. in a way what no Iranian-backed candidate can be," Mr. Knights said. "A candidate that the U.S. views with respect can get more for Iraq."
> And that could end up being important for Iran, which has been uneasy about the United States military presence just across the Iraqi border.
> "If Kadhimi says to Mike Pompeo that he needs something, he needs it, the U.S. is open

If the Obama team targeted pol tical rivals, why was there no public disclosure of the FBI CI investigation (Crossfire Hurricane) prior to the election?

Wouldn't a conspiracy need to go public to affect the election outcome?

Otherwise, given RIS actions, it's just CI, right?

Ameri is saying this because the threat of the U.S. leaving & sanctioning Iraqi leaders to include Ameri is real - the U.S. has leverage.

Iran needs the U.S. to keep U.S. funds flowing into Iraq.

Iraq is less attractive to Iran if it is U.S. disfavor.

That's not how unmasking works, like at all. And since you don't even know who someone is when you ask for them to be unmasked, you don't know they're a political rival when you request it — so the idea that you could use unmasking to target a political rival just doesn't hold up.

A few questions for the armchair intel experts out there:
1) How 'common' is it for a UN Ambo to unmask the identity of a US person?
2) What was [redacted]'s "need to know?"
3) What merited an unmasking request as late as mid-January 2017?

If you're one of the knuckleheads trying to obfuscate this story by pointing to the 'thousands' of annual unmasking requests, ask yourself WHO is making the requests, WHY they are doing it, and WHAT permissions/authorities they have to do so

As a point of order [redacted] REQUESTED the unmasking [redacted] made the decision that she needed to know. As any Ambassador to the UN would need to know what US actors were involved in closed door diplomacy. It's a simple answer really.

The EC seems like an insurance policy that states are treated equally, it's not the only th ng hold ng us together but during divisive times it ensures one side can't over rule the other

Eric L. Robinson @ JtcaEric May 13

Isn't that the role of the Senate? To treat states as equals?

That part makes sense: separate sovereignties (one has police power, the other does not) is a good check on federa power

The EC doesn't treat states as equals n its current form though.

Trump's propaganda machine is his twitter account, yours & Obama's is the media & tools of the state.

I'm way less worried about Trump trolling his political rivals than I am the of the FBI & IRS targeting political rivals.

One is distasteful the other is abuse of power.

John O. Brennan @JohnBrennan

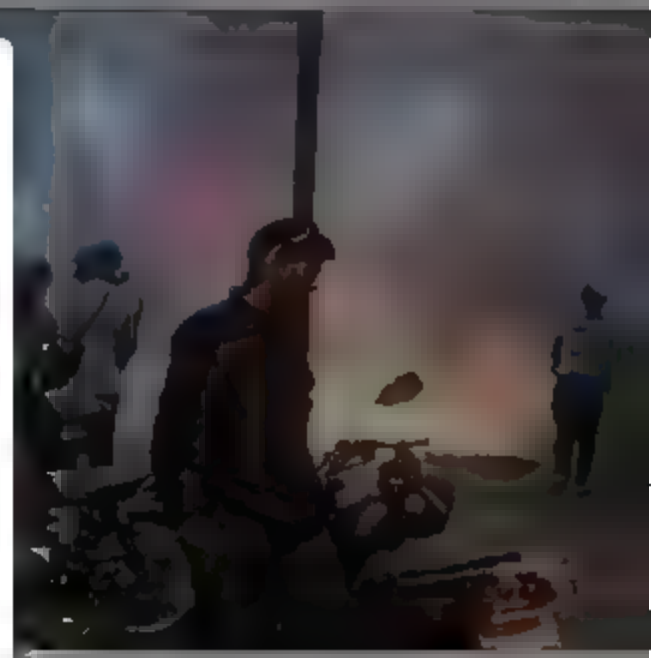
I don't know how else to interpret this

Is she just straight up saying they need the DNC to happen so they can nominate someone other than Biden?



Was she trying to say the nomination is not just about Trump?

It reaaaalllyy sounds like Biden won't be the nominee

Lauren Boebert for Congress (R-CO3) @laurenboebert
Someone should probably tell Joe Biden that the DNC Comms Director just said this on national television

ISIS has a new, 49 minute-long video from Iraq, showing attacks on the Army, PMF, TMF (Sunni tribes) and Police. There are many attacks in various parts of the country and to show it I made this map. Some of the locations here were shown more than once.

Biden has been selling out US jobs & security to China since 2000. He calls Trump racist to cover his own crimes against US economy & our security.

Biden has been wrong about every aspect of US national security for the past 40 years: from rising powers to the GWOT

I have to disagree We see in him leadership that we wouldn't tolerate from a SP4 leading a detail picking up pine cones Just because he talks about those policy ends doesn't mean he can achieve them. I don't think he could successfully lead in a high intensity conflict.

ISIS recruitment was sold on memes and high quality films that resonated with their narrative. Some even produced within said allied nations. proving that ineptitude. I can flip it back. It reflects on them too. We were frozen to counter-propaganda efforts until it was too late

With out a territorial caliphate their Memes would have been as effective as AQs. ISIS grew from a regime change war in Iraq followed by Obama knowing he was not politically tied to Iraq so he chose to neglect the threat

I track these issues as well, the territorial caliphate is gone, there was no will or plan under Obama to defeat ISIS.

Trump authorized us to kill Sulmani & muhandis while tightening the sanctions on Iran.

Trump is the 1st POTUS to push back on China's economic warfare.

I saw your comments. The criticism of tone, style, pol cies, practices, and maturity is deserved.

Policies that defeat our enemies? "Some" a ied criticism? How we doing in those areas? My assessment and those who actually track those are much different than yours.

Currently the only alternative to trump is a return to the leaders who put us into endless wars w/no gain & who were happy to ship critical supply chains & jobs to China & ignored RU aggression.

Trump is the only ldr offering anything but a return to failed policies.

Every puff piece about Kadhimi is now obsolete.

The Judiciary says there are no protesters to release - Kadhimi is silent.

No photo ops with leaders of the Protest movement.

Gushing praise for IRGC-QF militias in the Hashd to include Abu Fadak's KH.

And we're 11 Days in.

The American people agree with @realDonaldTrump and not members of the Washington establishment like @JoeBiden, who gave us these endless wars in the Middle East in the first place.

It's time to end our 19 year long quagmire in Afghanistan and finally bring our troops home.

Trump claimed as a candidate he would quickly bring back troops from Iraq and Afghanistan but has utterly failed despite his claims that he knew more than the generals. For someone with absolutely no military expertise I was skeptical. 3 1/2 years later Troop hasn't delivered.

Meanwhile, USG is pushing Muslim ban on many countries citing terrorism risks, but let's invited people from Saudi enter with minimal to no screening, despite Saudi (not on the list) being the largest recruiting location for jihadists for 30 years Agree w/ the overall point that our relationship w/ KSA is flawed.

The shooting should end the mil exchange program w/ KSA & require in depth vetting of all ppl seeking access to our nation.

More pressure on KSA is needed to make them more forthcoming on ties to Jihadis.

Trump's comment was more of a slam on Bush/Obama. Bush let AQ/UBL escape & diverted to a war based on ideology & lies in Iraq.

Obama talked a good game but phoned it in w/ a copy&paste COIN surge w/ silly ROE on an announced timeline.

It's fair to say we never played to win.

ISIS had us on its phase 2 plan, siding w/ AMZ's priority of establishing a caliphate 1st.

Once that was accomplished the ISIS brand name, access to Europe etc. earned them the varsity title.

Yet the hardest part will always be the 'why?' Why did the Etela'at do this and why did they tailor particular stories to inject into the narrative bloodstream? The problem with such complex questions is that sometimes it is more convenient to bypass and keep doing what one does.

The milit.as are not worned about Sa ad at CTS, not concerned about Othman at MO , or Jabouri at MOD Why? Becaıse they are not worried about a PM that ,ıst kissed the ring.

> The optics of the PMF visit and its proximity to the rocket strike will disturb some U.S. observers—Kadhimi gave fulsome praise to the organization for its role in fighting the Islamic State while standing under a poster of the late Abu Mahdi al-Muhandis, the PMF operational chief and designated terrorist who was killed by a U.S. airstrike on January 3. Yet both events have to be placed in the context of two important facts: that militias are concerned about Baghdad's recent string of positive command appointments, and that the nascent Kadhimi government will need to roll out PMF reforms incrementally rather than all at once.

Look, a member of the media calling for less free speech.

This is clearly just a stunt, when Trump eventually fades from the public talking heads like Mika will scramble for someone to give them relevancy.

I think the main mistake was that we negot ated with the Taliban directly.

Goes against the whole "We don t negotiate with terrorists!" meme lol.

A better way wouldve been to do it by proxy IMO

Probably through (even though I don't trust them)

Might ve made things smoothr

I think the TB peace deal is a fig leaf reason for us to GTFO. Also gives us a document to hold up after we bomb a TB element for buttering up w/AQ in the future.

I wouldn't have gone that route but see the logic. At this point Trump should just walk & say we tried.

Does look like that

Greg West @GregWest HALOJM 38m

I remember doing them in school as a kid at a cemetery from the 1700-1800 period. Thin paper, particularly if it gets wet bleeds through. Our teacher made us clean the headstones afterwards, but they were darker ones for the most part.

Mark @mudrmdb 27m

Don't get to DC a whole lot any more but it was common to see people at the VN Memorial doing it with pencil and paper. The slips of paper were with the name-panel books. Of course the Wall is black granite.

Greg West @GregWest HALOJM 23m

Yes, those are common as well. The graphite or charcoal doesn't show up on darker surfaces so much. I think a lot of people have forgotten stuff like this and may immediately think it was vandalism

Thread: Imagine if the hundreds of millions Iran and other states spent on inciting Palestinians to “armed struggle” had been spent on Palestinian universities and infrastructure and health care? I taught at a Palestinian university for five years and it was lacking funding

I had numerous students who could barely afford the relatively low tuition and they would have to miss classes due to it at the beginning of term. Imagine all that money Iran wastes on propaganda instead funding Palestinian scholarships

Seth Frantzman @sfrantzman · 10m

The real story is that from the time of Nasser to Iran’s obsession with Israel, these countries were never really pro-Palestinian, they just hate Israel and want to use Palestinians as a tool, they have zero interest in building up a thriving Palestinian society

Seth Frantzman @sfrantzman · 10m

Consider how they never did anything for Palestinians in camps in Lebanon and other places, they only took of the trade they wanted to give them was iron, and I mean iron for the “armed struggle”, not for building.

A major issue I have with retired Generals & IC professional commenting on decisions by the POTUS is that they only say ominous things about how awful everything is.

If they offered solutions or presented why they think what POTUS is doing is wrong I wouldn't care.

It pains me to say this, but I have found the Georgia Republicans in leadership to be far more responsive under pressure in the Ahmaud Arbery case than the key Kentucky Democrats in leadership in the Breonna Taylor case.

Every single decision maker in Georgia was a Republican.

In Louisville, Kentucky where Breonna Taylor was killed, we have a Democratic Governor, a Democratic Mayor in Louisville, and a Democratic District Attorney

And they have each done a half step above nothing, crumbs really, for Breonna Taylor and her family

It's infuriating.

10 39 242

Shaun King @shaunking 2h

Not a single Democrat in power right now in Kentucky would be there without the near unanimous support of Black voters.

And yet the Democratic Mayor, Governor, and DA have been pretty much all talk for months on Breonna Taylor. And they've hardly even talked, to be honest

Memorial Day is always a rough one for many of us, I hope everyone has the chance to enjoy the weekend & reads a few stories about those who gave their lives for our nation.

Before Shan was killed we'd privately raise a glass to the fallen closest to us & share their stories.

This is my friend, Brian. He died on #MemorialDay in Iraq 15 years ago. Several brave men died on that day as their aircraft crashed in a fiery accident.
Brian left civilian life to return to serve his country post-911. He was a patriot and a hero. #RIP

Memoria Day is always a rough one for many of us. I hope everyone has the chance to enjoy the weekend & reads a few stories about those who gave their lives for our nation.

Before Shan was killed we d privately raise a glass to the fallen closest to us & share their stories.

On Shan's behalf I'm going to share the stories of two of her friends who made the ultimate sacrifice.

Steven Daugherty KIA 16 JUL 07 in Iraq. Steve was SIGINT specialist, he was killed guiding SEAL teams in their pursuit of terrorist leaders.

It's almost 2am, ya girls in here feels so here's some real hard honesty. I keep extending in Kuwait because I feel like I haven't given enough. So many before me have sacrificed so much and in comparison it seems like what I give is nothing

That feeling says a ton about you, so you should take some comfort in knowing you doing your part in answering our nation's call.

But don't let that feeling prevent u from living a full life. The deployments are not going anywhere & there are plenty of ways to serve back home.

Exactly what Joe said. Your deployment is but a part of your life. Thinking like you do, you have more purpose in your life and so much more to give. You're going to be ok and do great things.

You're part of the 1.2% of Americans who has stepped to serve while too many others enjoy their 3 day weekend, cookouts, and the beach, without really reflecting on what this weekend represents.

Every year as a kid, my folks took me to a Memorial Day service at our local cemetery. The ceremonies were solemn, but the symbolism made it almost feel like a celebration. I didn't, and I couldn't, understand why the WWII & Korean & Vietnam vets choked back tears. I can now. 4/

This #MemorialDayWeekend, I'm hopeful that Americans both remember the fallen in all their specific, human fullness, AND consider the nature of the battles + wars that led to them sacrificing their lives.

This is still a republic. The wars - past and present - belong to us all.

Capt. Jesse Melton III, USMC, was KIA 9 SEP 08. His mom, Janice Chance, is one of the most genuine people I've ever known. Her work for Gold Star mothers is herculean. It was an honor to introduce Shelley to her a few years ago at the Commandant's Evening Parade. #MemorialDay2020

There are too many to list them all, but here's a thread to remember just some of the people I'll be thinking about today, remembered here chronologically by when they died. I hope it makes them more than just names on a list.

Memorial Day is for the fallen. We honor those who have served and sacrificed for our great nation.

Note: Members of the same household may elect to remove face coverings while at gravesite and distanced from others. You may see examples of that in this video.

Memorial Day is about looking back at the lives lost, and then looking forward and relishing every second of life like each one was a miracle — because they are. I wish I was better at that, but I'm trying. I know a lot of you are too.

people stand against these militias and their so called "government" that's only empowered because of the power vacuum post war

Joe Kent @joekent16jan19 May 24

The problem is we keep funding GOI and hoping for a government that supports us. We are in denial about the level of Iranian control in the GOI & ISF. The depth of Iran's control can be negated by cutting off their funding until Iranian backed leaders & militias are purged.

We blew it with the 2010 Iraq election when Allawi won more seats than Malaki. Obama said let the Iraqis sort it out and Malaki went running to Iran for help. Oddly, Iran forced Sadr to reconcile with Malaki. From that point forward hopes for Iraq plunged. Gave Iran more control

Part of Biden's long Iraq record. By 2010 I think we lacked leverage, Iran outplayed us starting in 2003, Bush let it happen & Obama knew none of it would stick to him & he was willing to give Iran control of Iraq for the JCPOA.

President of the United States. Your unhinged articles and interviews attacking the President while you are a Naval War College professor are an affront to that oath. If you want to say these things, quit the NWC

The initial tweet asking Tom to respectfully critique POTUS's policies & not constantly attack POTUS's personal traits is reasonable.

I'd think a prof would be more than capable of attacking Trump on the facts.

Would a NWC prof under Obama be allowed to carry on like Tom?

They absolutely should be allowed to carry on like this — that's the point.

He said he shouldn't be teaching at NWC, which is a silly claim and not at all reasonable because there is no legal basis to make it — it's one that we should refute immediately regardless of party

Joe Kent @joekent16jan19 · 5h
Not arguing the legal. Tom can say whatever he wants & there should be alt opinions but imagine a war college professor doing the same to Obama. Never would have flown. And again, if Tom is teaching our O's I'd expect some better

If @realDonaldTrump delivers on this, it will be a huge win for the national interest. Given the normal incentives to maintain the status quo and some important elite opposition, it would also show political courage even as a majority of Americans right now support getting out.

There are numerous differences, namely geography, AFG is far more isolated than Iraq. We can maintain ties w/ key power brokers & extend our CT efforts from Pakistan. If AFG descends into chaos, its a problem for Iran/Pak to deal with. If the TB let AQ come back we bomb from afar

In theory I would think so, but considering how the war has played out idk if we have such a strategy. I think our focus in Afgh should be largely CT (as you are suggesting). We can use several factors against the Taliban that they also used against the US

Trump has tried harder to negotiate a peace deal w/ the TB than any other POTUS.

A successful negotiation or a clear successful mil victory are not always possible or needed in the real world.

Thinking about the Navy MP who was shot in the chest by a terrorist this past week.

Her chest plate stopped the bullet, she was able to deploy the gate barriers, and unloaded her sidearm stopping the threat. Who knows how many innocent people she saved. That's a bad bitch.

A big question I have on this plan is what is the residual force required to actually leave behind a functioning embassy. A regular MSG DET is not at all sufficient. There are smart folks involved in these discussions, so I imagine they are taking this into account.

I hope we are also planning to not have an embassy, if/when the TB come back I think we are better served staying in the shadows w/ key war lords. An embassy & diplomats seem like a waste of resources & a liability for dealing w/the TB.

Early in the GWOT capturing was valued over killing so we could glean intel. As more restrains were put on interrogation killing became the priority.

Considering most high ranking members of ISIS & Iranian militias are/were alums of Bucca the case for more killing is valid.

One major factor in the rad calization of Bucca alums (and Cropper, and AG, and BTIF etc) is that every one of those fac lities was ad hoc with ad hoc leadership, ad hoc manning, little to no training, and no SOPs. They al failed for the first few rotations

I don't think any country is 100% necessary for CT, Pak is at least comfortable with us conducting CT into AFG/FATA so the relationships is ok for now.

If they swing too hard we should definitely support India more. India is certainly a better actor on the world stage.

There are a number of people who have defined success in Afghanistan as a lack of attacks on the homeland. If that is all your definition of an endstate is, then we have succeeded I don t th nk we've succeeded because I th nk it is more than just having a clear endstate

Joe Kent @joekent16 an19 3h

I don t th nk that argument is very honest, the TB lack the capac ty / ntent to attack US soi or outside AFG Most of the AQ threats against the US have come from Pak/Yemen post 9/11 & taken out due to intel/LE & some luck not the US fighting to support the AFG gov.

Jim Golby @ mgo by 3h

Exactly. So f that is our goal or ES (I believe people honestly worry about that even f they re wrong), then we achieved our end state but still failed because it cost way too much in blood and treasure

Again. these aren t fully my views on what to do But an ES isn t enough

One reason I think this discussion is so critical is because it gets to the heart of why the officer corps has failed: we don't see interaction with other actors with agency as ESSENTIAL to strategy. At best, it is implied. 1/

If you ask someone where this interaction is in the Ends Ways Means Risk construct, they'll say, "Oh, it's implied. We discuss that, too." But INFLUENCE is the core task we face

How to influence others to get them to do things that benefit our interests and values. 2/

Jim Golby @mgolby · 31m

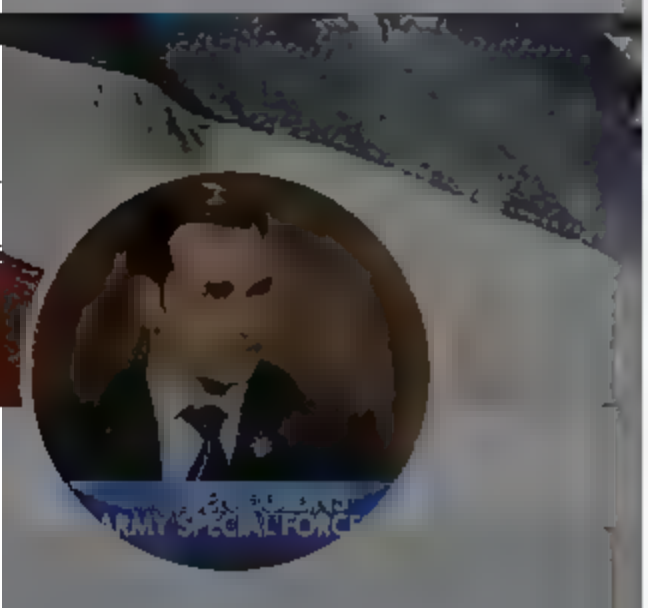
As a result, we do a lot of planning — where we focus on what things WE do, with very little serious thought about whether those things produce the influence we want.



We fail at strategy because we teaching planning & call it strategy, missing the control point of strategy. 3/

Strategy is backwards planning based on a clearly defined end state

The lack of an end state seems to be one of the biggest GWOT fails, resulting all strategies developed by DOD to be lacking.

Jim Golby @jmgolby 12h

I'm partially sympathetic to this idea, but I tend to think military leaders also use it as an excuse for why they failed. I don't think "end states" ever really end anyway.

Good point. If the end states don't end, then that should become part of the planning. A GWOT ex would be not getting bogged down in countries doing things that don't tie into killing terrorists.

So constantly evaluating what we are doing to see if it supports the end state.

The lack of public support for the police is exacerbated by many state/city police depts choosing to enforce laws that violate our basic rights during the pandemic. This foolish use of power eroded the trust between the police and people.

One of the reasons why Trump won me over was his brutal honesty w/ the republican party's (Bush) handling of the GWOT, in particular the entire Iraq war. Its hard to imagine how much more contained Iran & jihadis would be had we just left Saddam in power.

Kids, when you pine for "The Revolution" and imagine overindulged college students with Che Guevara tees and Green Day playing in the background... just know it's a fantasy.

Revolutions are usually defined by rape, murder, mayhem, and unimaginable suffering.

Think on that.

The difference is the control of terrain & ability of ISIS to export terror outside of the region. In 2014 ISIS was taking over large parts of IZ/SY & exporting terror.

Now ISIS territory is 100% re taken. ISIS will exist as long as the Sunni / Shia civil war burns.

Portland militant antifa group, the Pacific NW Youth Liberation Front, is one of the co-organizers of a “solidarity with Minneapolis” event tonight. @PortlandPolice have already announced that they plan to be uninvolved because it could “trigger” protesters.

Yes, the three years of accusing POTUS & his supporters of being Russian agents is a great example of a narrative that required very little facts or even results to effect its target.

Overall if we stay at war w/ no strategy to win & the same bad guys are captured & released over & over the guys who deploy regularly will lean towards killing for efficiency's sake - that then becomes the culture for new guys. A few deployment later the new guys are senior.

There's a fair amount of disinformation and misinformation going around about the federal government's legal authority to use troops to help respond to the unrest in Minneapolis.

Here's a short #thread with answers (and citations to authority) for the five big questions:

1 "Isn't the military already on the ground"?

A. Yes, the MN National Guard has been deployed by Gov Walz. But the Guard wears (at least) two hats. Right now, it's wearing its "state" hat, subject to the control solely of the Governor, which is uncontroversial

Steve Vladeck @steve vladeck 2h

2 "Doesn t the Posse Comitatus Act bar use of federal troops for domestic aw enforcement?"

A. No. The PCA only bars such use of the military without statutory authorization aw cornell.edu/uscode/text/18

Several statutes authorize such use of the military for aw enforcement.

changing definitions is a great way to be able to call anyone you disagree with racist. It's obviously effective & shields ppl from having a discussion while labeling the other side evil

Mr. President Dr. Steve Elvis America @yinzrjagsnat 2h

'Thug' is derived from 'Thuggee' an armed member of a death cult in India who killed people. I think we can all agree that, if we're sticking to strict definitions, that word is much more accurately used to describe cops than protestors.

"Antifa" s not a term you have at any point defined. Unless you think that any politica order other than fasc sm is anarchy, someone being "ant fascism" doesn t enta l supporting "anarchy" or vigilante violence There is also no member register anyone can say "I m antifa."

Antifa has nothing to do w/fighting fascism they just brand their opposition as fascists to justify violence against them. Antifa is nebulous, anyone showing up to riot & loot falls into their orbit. Antifa wants anarchy there is no agenda but chaos.

Every single mayor/governor who allowed this to happen needs to resign. They were terrified of being called racist & insensitive to the point where they allowed law & order to collapse. Horrible leadership that has ruined the lives of so many

Memo to @realDonaldTrump:

The pressure point for the Antifa terrorists is federal law-enforcement.

Federal law criminalizes their use of interstate organizational activities.

Fed LE is not under the control of left st DAs, police chiefs & mayors. For too long you had Democrat cities pulling back police & releasing rioters immediately w/o serious charges.

By reviewing arrest records, the FBI can determine potential candidates for federal charges. 2/

And @realDonaldTrump can score huge political victories by highlighting Democrat politicians who obstruct his prosecutions.

People will not tolerate covering for rioters who may have committed federal crimes.

Make the Dems side with the thugs or alienate their base 3/

After setting the historic St. John's Episcopal Church on fire, these rioters tore down the church's flag and tossed it into a bonfire nearby.

After destroying so much history, it's only fitting that they would desecrate the symbol that binds it all together.

The current focus is due to the cities in flames right now. Waiting until antifa kills someone as opposed to attempting to kill, for them to be considered a threat doesn't make sense.

Antifa uses violence for political means, or for anarchy so they fit the terror definition.

The crazies looking for anarchy may hate each other & have different ideology but they all thrive in anarchy.

Before these riots, Portland, OR stopped enforcing law & order & every "protest" just became anarchists fighting each other & anyone in their way.

One of the many reason. One of the common narratives of antifa & the left is that America is not great, we are a police state/dictatorship etc. that narrative has been a starting point for turning a blind eye to their acts of violence that has resulted in our cities smoldering.

I m afraid the NG under the control of govs who have already failed to enable LE are not going to bring back L&O

robertwaldeck @Robertwaldeck 14h

Here is the thing. The governor works for the people Not L&O And f L&O loses the confidence of the people the gov will go there 1000s of police public encounters are now on TV It is erod ng confidence n L&O My TL is 8 days of repeating that /1

I get all that but letting it burn is not a solution any POTUS could accept. W/out L&O we don't have a nation, there are no good options if local ldrs fail & we let the mob rule.

It is interesting to watch the condemnation of Trump's decision to use the mil to quell riots.

If we aren't holding local ldrs responsible for their cities/states what is the point in having them? Just have POTUS appoint all, then the buck truly stops w/him.

The alternatives to using the mil to quell the chaos only work if local ldrs restore law & order & assist the FBI w/ID ing key antifa ldrs

Local ldrs will only respond if we hold them accountable & don't let them pass the responsibility off on DC.

1 2 18

Joe Kent @joekent16jan19 · 16h

You can demand better leadership from local leaders & oppose Trump. Law & order is not a partisan issue or by in large a federal issue, its on the leaders closest to us.

If the local ldrs fail POTUS has to act. That is how we arrived at this moment.

We rightly hold ourselves up as better than those dictators, and one of the reasons we can is because our tolerance for governmental abuse is much lower

Joe Kent @joekent16jan19 · 22h

One of the many reason. One of the common narratives of antifa & the left is that America is not great, we are a police state/d ctatorship etc. that narrative has been a starting point for turning a blind eye to their acts of violence that has resulted in our cities smoldering

It could be that the structure you are looking for simply doesn't exist. Even in Iraq, we mapped out AQI making it look like they had this big TO&E because we were comfortable looking at a mirror image of ourselves.

I certainly agree & argued that a ton over the years but there still were key ppl doing finance general guidance etc. despite the lack of a US line-block chart system

I think there are at least key agitator ldrs at all of these riots, some are getting funding to buy supplies etc

Another point I'd argue is that we see results. riots but the how & who is murky b/c we have not done our due diligence yet In Iraq we initially blamed Baathists for everything. then AQI entered & they were the boogie man. It took us a while to figure out the complexities.

Joe Kent @joekent16jan19 Jun 1

w/antifa they have been treated like local hooligans who get arrested & released We have not treated them like criminals yet, thats the start point, arrest. interrogate connect the dots If theres no structure. good Then arresting & charging will have a huge effect.

It is interesting to watch the condemnation of Trump s decision to use the m to quell riots.

If we aren't holding local ldrs responsible for their cities/states what is the point n having them? Just have POTUS appoint all, then the buck truly stops w/him.

So many retired generals denouncing Trump's non military intervention, are we supposed to be so scared of Trump that we turn to the generals?

Why are the generals not condemning the rioters & demanding local leaders uphold their duty & protect their communities?

In the UAE and to advocate for never leaving a war while on defense contractor boards, but hey he owns so many books

In my view, there's a difference between the legitimate police crackdown on violent protesters and looters who come out at night, vs what happened yesterday in DC to violently clear peaceful protesters for Trump's narcissistic photo op that's classic 3rd world dictator behavior

Correct. They are not. Not even close. Was not my intention to suggest Trump is a butcher like Bashar. My analogy to these dictators is the symbolism of the very weird solo photo op and the clearing of peaceful day time protests to get that. That is what really concerns me

Fed LE appears to be starting this process but the lack of answers to these questions indicates that the cities have not or will not conduct their own investigations into who the violent actors are.

One narrative says antifa is not real, each incident of violence stands alone & the antifa narrative is just kids posting on Soc media.

The other points to a larger conspiracy with coordination and major outside funding

1 10

Joe Kent @joekent16jan19 · 7h

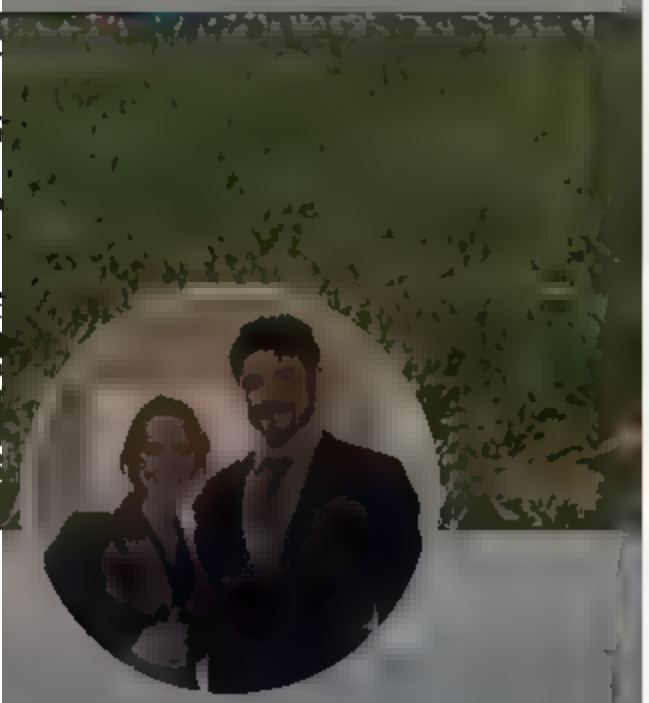
I think antifa is an ideology w/informal fluid guidance/ $/ coordination



If I were antifa or any other bad actor I'd want the confusion & all sides blaming each other

Restoring L&O to our nation is not a partisan issue & takes the narrative from who ever the bad actors are

This kind of speculation isn't helpful.

How quickly could DOJ authorize the spending, solicit bids on a contract, award the contract (would be a public record) then the contractor recruits/trains/equips/and deploys the force.

The USG doesn't move that fast. It's just cops.

The whole country is against what happened to George Floyd - no one is defending the policeman - everyone is in agreement here.

We can be against the policeman and for law and order - for law enforcement.

We can be against the violent opportunists and for peaceful protesters.

That would be a brave action - holding them accountable.

Instead, he's against a fictional use of our military:

So it's come down to a contest between a narrative of damnation ('white privilege') vs. a narrative of redemption ('MAGA'). The old narrative that held things together is unraveling; the establishment that tends to it has lost its vigor and its way.

I don't see the anti Trump base rallying around him. I think if they believed in Biden there would be strong momentum towards November to vote Trump out & making the case.

Instead there is just support for more protesting / rioting / hoping the "military steps in".

The Dem's game is clear, they are betting that the continued chaos hurts Trump & are supporting this chaos because they know Biden cannot win.

If the Dems had a candidate that they felt could beat Trump they would be using this moment to build voter excitement for November.

You don't need soldiers (or even cops!) to chaperone a block party dance-off. Just leave people alone and let them do that. Minus the riot troops with their clubs and pepper-ball guns jauntily bouncing with the beat.

Ignorant people demanding defunding and thinking crime will go away from their cities. The police are not social workers or drug counselors. Police right now do it all and they are not trained for many of the responses they deal with daily. Focus on improving police not defunding

1 An elderly relative of mine just died alone in a "memory unit," her face turned to the wall like some kind of prisoner in solitary. Her husband, who had visited her every day for years, was barred from seeing her

Bucky Pop @BuckskinPop 24h

2 He was told that he could only see the mother of his children once she had "deteriorated." Like clockwork, his wife deteriorated quickly, and they were briefly reunited as she lie dying. After weeks of brutal isolation she finally passed, alone and probably scared

3 She was a beautiful, kind person who had developed Alzheimer's after living a bounteous life - only to wither away outside the reach of her husband and children. If only the coronavirus had taken her, she would have passed away quickly instead of languishing in loneliness.

The optics aren't exactly flattering to the folks on the fence line and the video keeps the camera mainly focused on the black protester, not all the white ones. And then there's the soda straw view of the whole episode. A very manipulative video.

1 2 11

David Parke @Dave_Parke · 6h
It's hard to say if it's manipulative or just what it is. Maybe they're racist, maybe they're cautious. Nobody knows. But the right and the left will view it through their specific lense and it'll just reinforce what they already believe.

Trump did not take Cotton's advice, the active duty military has not been used to quell the riots. Trump is trying to get the local governments to step up & protect their people not use their safety as a bargaining chip.

As another "former", never saw kneeling as a slight to the troops but a statement about our country and injustice. I personally don't like it (rubs against my built in DNA / bias) but I defend the right to do so...guaranteed in our Constitution. The flag is something we share.

Agree, well said. I looked at the flag as a sign of true comfort, when serving in hostile locations for CIA and the embassy was our only real refuge. I don't like the kneeling. I won't do it. But I get it, I try to really think and understand it, and ultimately am not offended.

Every POTUS is allowed to pick their team.
We had 3 years of Uk/RU gate that was a massive waste of time.
With Trump its results that wins him votes, those who dislike just wag their fingers & rage, thats not much of an alternative, so here we are.

The left run cities are burning & their constituents are making excuses for their leaders - that's impressive indoctrination.

Let's have all those other discussions, once we have law & order back. Let's debate & vote not burn it all. That mentality is coming from the left.

That is the biggest issue I think. Arresting violent actors is the easy part, countering an ideology is the hard part, if not impossible with the media almost entirely siding with the left's characterization of the right.

The media are acting as paid provocateurs at this point and Maddow's initial win in the OAN lawsuit is just going to encourage them to lie even more boldly because the judge said that saying "they are literally being paid by Russia" was simply Maddow's opinion.

Exactly right.

The ldrs in these cities refusing to enforce basic law & order has given the power of violence to the rioters.

That shift of power has me very concerned we are now relying on the bad actors to not attack us. They own the initiative.

A MESSAGE TO COPS FROM NORMAL PEOPLE:

You had your one mistake - too many of you went along with the pandemic persecutions.

We forgive you.

Now you need our support.

The left hates you.

So remember whose side you are on.

Especially when they tell you to take our guns.

They Called Him Leif @leflaw · 3m

And let's be honest, PPD's "restraint" has been absolutely abysmal, and the idea that they should be commended for not brutalizing American citizens even more than they actually did — including journalists and peaceful protesters — is utterly appalling.

And let's be honest, PPD's "restraint" has been absolutely abysmal. and the idea that they should be commended for not brutalizing American citizens even more than they actually did including journalists and peaceful protesters is utterly appalling.

I disagree, they have had to go fight to prevent our city from being burned each night by a mob that just wants to riot. They should be doing deliberate targeting of the leaders & arresting them, the mayor is trying to appease the mob hoping he can give them enough.

Antifa rioters on Sandy Blvd. in Portland draped a US flag over a George Washington statue & set it on fire. They then toppled the statue. “Genocidal colonist” & “f— cops” are sprayed on monument. Rioters have began to build another autonomous zone nearby.

The toppling of statues has nothing to do with racism. The rioting in the streets has nothing to do with racism. The taking over city blocks in Seattle has nothing to do with racism. It's anarchy. Wake up!

Its not anarchy

Violent assault and destruction is not anarchy its authoritarianism.

These people are violent authoritarians and communists anarchy means without authority, real anarchists are non violent

There is no reason or cause behind the riots other than control.

The anarchist are showing us they control the streets b/c the gov is too weak to stop them.

They demonstrate their control of the narrative when we play these semantic games about who is a raciest.

I've always said that capitalization should not be conflated with respect or the lack there of. But it seems the AP disagrees. It's a slippery slope IMO. Do we start lowercasing Nazi even though it's a proper noun? Or Hitler? Should we capitalize apple since they're good for you?

> The Associated Press @AP

Ok so plate carriers.
To start here is how they should be fitting. Lots of folks tend to wear them too low, and with too much “headspace” in between the two bags. You want this to “feel” like it sits high. In fact i often have a hard time fitting my head through the PC.

Big factor s “what are you using it for” nearly every carrier can be configured to be pretty slick. But keep in mind. If you need to be mobile, if your rolling heavy or if your rolling slick, you’re going to have to modify how you are running your rig

Oh yeah as a Kurd I totally believe Bolton. His stories are so significant & true that he waited to put them into a book & profit off them before he spoke up

Till the day he dies he'll be bitter he couldn't send American kids over to die in the Middle East under Trump

"fully automatic sub machine gun fire" I'm curious as to how this specific determination was made. Was somebody spotted with a MP 5, an Uzi, or pray tell a STEN? Or is it possible somebody just heard a rapid exchange of semiauto fire? I have a hunch which is the more likely

It could have been any of the types of fire you described. The take away for me is increase in lawlessness & violence When this started it was sticks & bricks, now gun play, what's next ? Well that's up to the mob it seems.

Kevin Dickenson @PhotoMojoEye · 30m

Fair take away For me it's also that words have meaning To say that gunfire, or an exchange of rapid gunfire was heard would have been an accurate and appropriate description When you add terms meant to sensationalize, you have modern "journalism "

Sarah Carlson's book is out today. David Parke and I interviewed her recently and I read an advanced reader's copy. Really worth the time to hear a first person account of what was going on in Libya from a CIA officer.

Agree with you, Joe. Strategy was the problem. Personnel policy is a subset of that of course, but I think focusing on personnel turnover passes the buck. Also, longer tours would likely have other effects such as reduced operational tempo, more risk aversion.

If people deployed for longer to AFG would we have found it to be worth nearly 19 years ?

No. We were playing the wrong game once we stopped chasing AQ at the PAK border.

Time to move on to pants. So many options. You can go all the way from some 5.11(form fit ones not the boxy looking ones) to your regular hiking pants from brands such as Patagonia, prAna, Kuhl, and Northface. Even Eddie Bower has some comfortable ones.

brink @brinkofill 3h

Just make sure they fit properly, and are a blended material that will let your boys breath, while not ripping while putting hate down range.

The reasoning for tearing down such a monument is simple- power.

The mob has no point or cause, they just want power & control.

Judge a group based on its actions not it's rhetoric. Antifa is not defending the cities it's burning.
Antifa / BLM want to destroy our system & gain control.

Antifa is highly decentralized, very little is known about its structure b/c we refuse to arrest/prosecute.

Last night, @K D Campbell mentioned Dr. Bennis Blue, the first female paratrooper in the @82ndABNDiv (assigned in 1978).

In Aug 2017, we had the honor of welcoming Dr. Blue back to @FtBraggNC for the first time since 1983.
